[illegible] RESOLUTIONS [illegible]

Announcement of Vote is Cheered to the Echo Upon Floor--Galleries Applaud.

GRAND REPUBLICAN SUPPORT.

More Than Fifty Members Participate in the Final Debate--Vote Stood 209 to 91--Senate Proceedings.

Washington, June 16. By a vote of 209 to 91 the House of Representatives today adopted the Newlands resolution providing for the annexation of Hawaii. The debate which had continued without interruption since Saturday, was one of the most notable of this Congress, the proposed annexation being considered of great commercial and strategic importance by its advocates, and being looked upon by its opponents as involving a radical departure from the long established policy of the country and likely to be followed by the inauguration of a pronounced policy of colonization; the abandonment of the Monroe doctrine and participation in international wrangles. More than 50 members participated in the debate. From a party standpoint the result was awaited with the keenest interest.

The vote in support of the resolutions was made up of 170 Republicans, 28 Democrats, 9 Populists and 4 fusionists. The vote against annexation comprised 77 Democrats, 3 Republicans, 7 Populists and 4 fusionists. Today's session began at 10 o'clock and the debate continued seven hours. Notable speeches were made by Messrs. Berry (Dem. Ky.) W. A. Smith (Rep. Mich.) and Meekison (Rep. Ind.) for, and by Messrs. Johnson (Rep. Ind.) and Williams (Dem. Miss.) against the measure. Few members were upon the floor until late in the afternoon and the galleries had few occupants. As the hour for voting drew near, however, members began taking their places and there were few more than a score of absentees when the final roll call was taken.

The announcement of the vote upon the passage of the resolutions was cheered upon the floor and applauded generally by the spectators. The resolutions adopted, in a preamble, relate the offer of the Hawaiian republic to cede all of its sovereignty and absolute title to the government and crown lands, and then accept the cession, and declares the islands annexed. The resolutions provide for a commission of five at least two of them shall be resident Hawaiians, to recommend to Congress such legislation as they may deem advisable.

The public debt of Hawaii not to exceed $4,000,000 is assumed. Chinese immigration is prohibited, all treaties with other powers are declared null, and it is provided that until Congress shall provide for the government of the islands all civil, judicial and military powers now exercised by the officers of the existing government shall be exercised in such manner as the President shall direct, and he is given power to appoint officers to put in effect the provisional government in the islands.

HOUSE IN DETAIL.

Mr. Johnson (Rep., Ind.) then spoke in opposition to the resolutions. Mr. Johnson declared the man a fool who would contend that Dewey was in danger, and that the Hawaiian annexation was a prerequisite to making him secure. Mr. Hooker (Rep., Miss.) and Mr. Meyer (Dem., La.) followed in opposition, paying special attention to the injury which he claimed would be inflicted upon the 500,000 people engaged in Louisiana in the sugar industry.

During Mr. Meyer's speech he was interrupted by Mr. Bulzer, who asserted the agent of the sugar trust was at the office working against annexation by what authority, he asked, was this done. Mr. Grifiss (Dem., Tenn.) "By the newspaper in your hand, which says," Mr. Oxnard, a representative of the trust is here and asserts these resolutions will pass the House, but the Senate will and it will be before they can get through there."

"He ought to be kicked out of town," declared the Tennessee Democrat.

"That's right," replied the New Yorker, "he comes walking around in [illegible]

"I'll kick him out," asserted the member from Tennessee, with rising indignation.

"And hope the gentleman will do so," said Mr. Sulzer.

Messrs. Bailey (Dem., Kan.), Mudd (Rep., Md.) and Grout (Rep., Vt.) spoke for and Mr. Shaw (Dem., Tenn.) against annexation.

Mr. Smith, of Michigan, advocated the passage of the annexation resolution.

HAWAII OWES THIS COUNTRY MUCH.

Replying to the argument that this country owes much to Hawaii because of its present aid to the United States in the open violation of neutrality laws Mr. Johnson argued such was a wrongful attempt to play upon the feelings of unthinking people. Hawaii owed this country much, he said, for having guaranteed Hawaiian independence by a bold declaration and maintenance of a policy and for having thrown down American tariff lines and put millions in the pockets of the Hawaiian republic authorities.

Adverting to the danger of annexation being the first step in colonization, he said the gentleman could not deny that the holding of the Philippines was contemplated already. Newspapers foremost in advocacy of annexation were openly advocating now the retention of the Philippines and what was more deplorable and significant, he said, was the expressed fear of the President that Spain would sue for peace before we could secure Porto Rico.

Mr. Johnson said men were already speaking disparagingly of the Cubans and their capacity for self-government and it was useless to attempt to hide the truth that American arms of invincible were already turned to Cuba. But two months after action was taken to free and establish an independent island, Mr. Johnson feared that the end of the war would be a mad and disgraceful scramble for territory and appealed to the House not to pass upon the pending question in time of war when naturally a solemn statement was made to be egged them in justice to themselves and the people of the country to postpone action until after the election and until after the country could hear the question fully discussed, a privilege to which it was entitled, but which it had not enjoyed. He warned his Republican colleagues against hasty action which would be brought, he believed with the seeds of political disaster because the people would not approve the action. He pointed out the necessity that would exist for the maintenance of a great naval and military force at Hawaii without necessarily in any degree the necessity for a force upon the Pacific coast. Were the Hawaiian islands necessary then even more so with a view to our security was the possession of British Columbia, Halifax and the Bermudas. The latter was much near the Atlantic coast and would afford England an excellent basis of hostile operations and yet no war with England had occurred within 85 years.

REPORTED SPANISH RETREAT.

Report That Germany is Making Serious Issue in Philippines is Unaccountable to Officials at Washington.

Washington, June 15. The welcome news that the navy department this afternoon received from American marines that they had driven the Spaniards from Cross Hill, [illegible] attack against heavy odds [illegible] but were reinforced [illegible] the commands of [illegible] and were now strong [illegible] than hold their own. [illegible] to a despatch from [illegible] had indicated that [illegible] would be compelled to [illegible] before Gen. Shafter's [illegible] there.

[illegible] since the fullest credit [illegible] the Cuban co-operation [illegible] most significant feature [illegible] Gen. Now that Rabi and Garcia are on the scene this force is swelled to thousands.

The news of the routing with severe loss of the Spanish guerrillas and the capture of their water supply by the Americans and Cubans, had not been received up to the close of the department today, but it is felt here that it will [illegible] the Spaniards very much needed water.

In making his march Rabi had crossed the lines of communication between the island commander, Gen. Pando, in Havana and the Spanish forces at Santiago de Cuba. This makes it plain that Santiago is not likely to get reinforcements from Gen. Pando. It is believed here that, also established fact that the lines of communication and relief to Santiago are practically cut off in all directions.

GREATLY DISPIRITED.

[illegible] despatches show that the Spanish are greatly dispirited by the news of the American victory at Guantanamo Bay. Only a few days ago the Spanish officials were [illegible] that the Spanish soldiers were [illegible] and practically [illegible] that Spanish [illegible] outlooked.

ANOTHER CALL FOR TROOPS DENIED.

Secretary Alger this afternoon denied that the government was considering the advisability of making another call for volunteer troops. The war department is now entirely occupied with the task of completing the equipment of the large number of organizations still without accoutrements, and has not yet even taken up in earnest the procurement of the 35,000 men called for in the second proclamation of the President. All that has been done so far under that call is the arranging to fill up the regiments secured under the first call.

The secretary had received a report of the special board headed by Major Hoff, charged with an inspection of various points that were offered as good camping grounds for the United States troops.

The best features for a large military camp were found near Fernandina, Fla. The point is 12 miles off the main line of railroad communication, which makes it possible to isolate the camp, should it become necessary to do so, through the ship fever or yellow jack. A broad plain affords splendid camping and drill ground for 20,000 troops, and within a few miles one of the finest sea beaches in the country. One of the best features of the site is a great well, 1700 feet deep, flowing pure water, at the rate of twenty million gallons per day. The board reported that this water could be piped all over the camp, and Secretary Alger has ordered the piping to be laid, announcing that in adopting the department's choice of site to [illegible]

NO INTENTION TO BREAK CAMP.

There is no intention to break up the present camps unless disease should appear, necessitating the changes. Secretary Alger's purpose in sending out the Hoff board was to prepare a camp, not for immediate occupation, but for the instant reception of troops who might necessarily be removed from other camps where contagious disease might appear. Tonight camp Alger, the secretary said this afternoon, that five wells of water had been opened, three yesterday and there was evidence that the water supply would be ample in the future. The place is free from flies and mosquitoes, the sick rate is very low, and altogether in the opinion of the secretary there is no better camping site. Gen. Graham has orders for a series of exercises, marches, which are expected to do much to round on the troops while relieving them from the monotony of camp life. For the warm season the camp at Chickamauga seems now in excellent running order, [illegible] to be discontinued or permanently [illegible] the attorney general has referred to [illegible]

[illegible] SURPRISE.

Friends of the Administration Greatly Pleased Over Passage of Hawaiian Resolution--War News.

(Special dispatch to Whig and Courier.)

Washington, June 16. The big majority which passed the Hawaiian resolution in the House was a welcome surprise to the friends of the administration.

Tremendous efforts had been made in a certain quarter to represent this annexation movement as the beginning of a military territorial expansion and therefore to draw the line of partisanship upon it.

Probably these efforts had some effect, but an analysis of the vote shows the utter failure of any scheme to hamper the administration in its foreign policy during the present crisis for mere political advantage.

Advices from the navy and army today are encouraging. Preparations for future movements are much more rapid than heretofore.

Should another expedition to Cuba or that to Porto Rico be advisable immediately, it could be ready to move in a few hours. In case events require urgent measures, however, another expedition will await the result of the one now on the way.

The President desires to advance only just so fast as the advantage can be maintained without too much sacrifice.

Victor.

NO KNOWLEDGE OF INTERVENTION.

London, June 16. A special despatch from Madrid, published this forenoon, purports to give the substance of an interview with Senor Silvela, who is quoted as saying that yesterday's rise in the bourse was due to telegrams advising lending, financiers that Russia has taken steps to intervene shortly in the settlement of the Philippine question. The premier, however, added that personally he had no knowledge of such intervention.

THE TROOPS WILL BE OFF SANTIAGO BY FRIDAY.

Washington, June 15. With Gen. Shafter's expedition on the way to Santiago and the military branch busily engaged in preparing the expedition to be sent against Porto Rico, there is nothing for the navy to do but to wait patiently until the troops arrive at Santiago. It is realized at the department that the situation of the marines is a very uncomfortable one, suffering as they do from harassing night attacks that prevent them from securing much needed rest and unable because of the character of the country and the nature of the tactics adopted by the enemy from getting a fair chance at them. However, the department is assured that there is no real danger in the situation, because it seriously threatened by an overwhelming force the marines with very short notice can retire aboard the American warships. It is military sentiment embodied in a determination to keep the American flag flying over the place where it was first planted that thus retaining for the navy the honor of obtaining the first position on shore that keeps the marines encamped on the bay of Guantanamo. It is true, however, that an ordinary secondary purpose will be served by their presence as the place will afford a proper coaling station when the French cable between Hayti and Santiago is spliced.

Although Tampa despatches said that the transport fleet was going to double Cape Anton on the western extremity of Cuba, in proceeding to Santiago, the naval officials so not believe that is the case, for the run on that the western route is fully 200 miles longer than the route around the east of Cape Maisi. The officials seem to reason to forced their opinion to the effect that no troops will be off Santiago Friday.

The navy department today issued the following bulletin:

"Admiral Sampson reports that he has been reinforced by several hundred Cubans and that our forces at Guantanamo are in a very satisfactory condition. The town of Aguadores has been occupied by the troops under Gen. Rabi. The men under Gen. Garcia are co-operating with the American forces."

WONG WEK

Not Wanted in San Francisco.

San Francisco, June 15. A decision rendered by U. S. Commissioner Hoadley in the case of Wong Wek will end somewhat settling the conflict between the treaty with China and the act of 1884, relating to the landing of Chinese. Wong Wek arrived here on the steamer Belgic with 60 of his countrymen, all of whom sought to enter on merchants' certificates issued under the act of 1884 and his case was submitted to test the law. The government held that the certificate in question was defective in necessary details, were not stated. The petitioner claimed that these were demanded by the treaty, which he asserted took precedence over the act of Congress. Commissioner Hoadley sustained the objections to the certificate and in recommendation for deportation was made.

GERMAN ISSUE DISCREDITED.

The persistent reports that Germany is on the eve of making a serious issue on the Philippines are unacceptable to officials here who have more direct and exact information than Germany has never contemplated such a step, and is not now moving towards its execution either alone or with other powers. This direct information overcomes many circumstantial reports coming from Europe. Some newspapers that Germany is exchanging secret notes with other powers, others that Admiral Prince Henry and Admiral Diedrichs instructed to intervene at Manila, others that the German embassy here has made a protest to the state department and others that Emperor William himself is taking a personal interest in resenting the American occupation of the Philippines. There is the greatest activity for saying that each one of these reports is groundless and has arisen from intriguers with a malicious purpose to embroil the feeling between Germany and the United States. In the main these reports have originated outside Germany, although one army and navy newspaper in Germany took them up and argued the advantage of an active German policy in the Philippines, and by persons familiar with the facts but this journal is without official recognition and in no way represents the attitude of the German government. It is more the organ of the navy and has no channel of unofficial contact with naval circles. For military reasons it has never recommended itself to the German government in the present war.

HAWAIIAN RESOLUTION.

When Mr. Johnson concluded the House and galleries applauded freely.

DOLLIVER SUPPORTS RESOLUTION.

Mr. Dolliver (Rep. Ia.) speaking in support of the resolutions complimented the speech of the Indiana member, but doubted its success as his application so better would be greater than as a maker of votes.

Mr. Dolliver expressed hearty endorsement of Mr. Johnson's declaration that there was no danger of other powers attempting to take the Hawaiian Islands. "I cannot understand," declared Mr. Dolliver, "how a man who distrusts everything of his own country can fall utterly to suspect anything upon the part of other great powers of the world." In conclusion, Mr. Dolliver refuted the charge that annexationists had any hidden motives looking to colonial expansion. As to the future of the Philippines, Cuba and Porto Rico, he declared that he knew nothing but he had faith that in the providence of God the American people would be guided aright and these questions would be met and disposed of properly when occasion should arise. A wave of applause swept through the House and galleries when Mr. Dolliver ceased.

Mr. W. A. Smith (Rep. Mich.) followed in support of the resolutions.

Speeches were made by Mr. Lanney for and by Messrs. Terry (Dem., Ark.), Gaines (Dem., Tenn.), Smith (Dem., Ariz.) against the resolutions.

CUMMINGS DENOUNCES CLEVELAND.

Mr. Cummings (Dem., N. Y.) in a ten minutes' speech supported annexation and indulged in severe denunciation of former President Cleveland for his efforts to prostitute the monarchy in Hawaii at the dawning of the American Republic by Columbus's Round. He (Cummings) said, by one, the additions of territory effected since the establishment of this government, and all except that of Alaska were, he declared, the results of Democratic policy and action.

Mr. Williams (Dem., Mo.) concluded the debate for the opposition. He devoted much of his time to an attack upon the method of annexation embodied in the resolutions. He insisted upon its unconstitutionality. The territory, he said, could be taken only by treaty, purchase or discovery.

Mr. Williams predicted annexation would be the first step in extensive colonization which would prove injudicious to the nation's welfare. He read from Hon. Wm. J. Bryan's speech yesterday express his tendency toward territorial expansion. Mr. Williams said while the speech was not directed to the annexation of Hawaii it was most opportune as touching upon a policy to which Hawaii would fall.

Mr. Hepburn (Rep., Ia.) concluded in support of the resolutions. He said he believed the people of the country were fair but with the issue involved until the nation was committed to action and final action. Answering the claim that annexation would mean launching upon colonization, he disavowed any such intention. He said he hoped to see every Spanish possession fall into the possession of this country in order to contribute to the moral injury and that being accomplished the question of their disposition would arise and be met when the event should come.

At the conclusion of Mr. Hepburn's speech it being 5 o'clock voting began. The first roll call was upon the majority substitute and was proposed resolutions as follows:

That the United States will view as a crime of hostility any attempt upon the part of any government of Europe, Asia or Africa to hold possession of the Hawaiian Islands, or to exercise over them any protect or under any conditions sovereign authority thereto.

2. That the United States hereby announces to the people of those islands and to the world their independence of the people of Hawaii will be a fundamental condition to main in the same.

The vote stood resulted in the rejection of the substitute, yeas 84, nays 205.

The announcement of the vote was applauded. The majority resolutions were then put up in their passage and the roll was proceeded. It was followed with great interest, there being a general curiosity to the vote of members considered doubtful. Prior to announcing the vote Mr. Dalzell, who in the absence of Mr. Reed, was presiding, said:

"The Speaker of the House is absent on account of illness. I am requested by him to say that if he were present on this proposition he would vote 'No.'" The announcement was applauded by the opposition. Mr. Dalzell then announced the vote as yeas 209, nays 91.

Cheers followed from members and applause from the galleries. At 5.35 P. M. the House adjourned.

THE SENATE.

Washington, June 15. After the passage of a large number of private pension bills and listening to a carefully prepared speech on the advantages of Republican tariff legislation by Mr. Pritchard (N. C.) the Senate today resumed consideration of the International American Bank bill. An amendment was accepted by the committee and adopted, extending the privileges of the bank to the citizens of the United States instead of restricting them to those mentioned in the bill. When the Senate adjourned the discussion had not been concluded.

SENATE IN DETAIL.

After a brief speech by Mr. Pettus (Ala.) in further opposition to the bill, Mr. Mallory (Fla.) offered as an amendment as follows:

That the powers, rights, privileges, obligations and duties conferred and imposed by this act shall not be exclusive, but shall be conferred and imposed on any citizens of the United States shall be inserted in the paragraph numbered the first section of this act which for the purpose of incorporating an international bank, shall take steps and follow the procedure prescribed by this act to be taken and followed by the persons named in the first section hereof, for the purpose of incorporating the said international bank; and said citizens of the United States shall have the right to adopt such corporate name as to them seems best.

Mr. Mallory said Mr. amendment would prevent the proposed bank from being a monopoly. On behalf of the committee Mr. Foraker accepted the amendment.

Mr. Caffery (La.) discussed the measure from the standpoint of an international lawyer and could find no objection to it. He maintained that Congress had ample authority to incorporate such an institution proposed.

Mr. Rawlins (Utah) opposed the bill.

Mr. Pettus withdrew the amendment he offered yesterday concerning the interest to be charged by the proposed bank and offered in its stead the provision of the international banking law relating to interest.

Mr. Spencer, on behalf of the committee, accepted the amendment modified so that the bank might charge the usual interest charged in the state or states, county or counties, where the bank may do business.

Mr. Bacon then moved the bill over as unfavorable and gave notice of an amendment that strikes out the provision that the principal office of the proposed bank might be in New York city and requires it to be in Washington, D. C.

Mr. Pettus offered an amendment to the bill limiting the provision enabling the proposed bank to act as trustees in all disposition of government, state or municipal bonds.

At 4.35 P. M. the bill was laid aside and the Senate went into executive session and soon thereafter adjourned.

DOLLIVER DEFENDS RESOLUTIONS.

Mrs. Julia C. Brown Found Dead in Bed—Evidence of a Brutal Murder.

Lynn, Mass., June 15. The body of Mrs. Julia C. Brown, a widow 76 years old, living with her two sons, at 80 Ashland street, was found dead in her bed this morning by the manager of her sons. Ernest Brown, and later developments disclosed the fact that she had been murdered. The police were unable to find any trace of footprints about the house, and this afternoon Ernest and his brother William D. Brown, who were apparently in the house when the murder took place, were taken into custody pending a further investigation. The two men slept upstairs, and according to the statements of Ernest he went down at 5 o'clock to arouse his mother from entering her room he found her dead in bed, but said afternoon he said nothing to the police about the quantity of blood about her head and spattered over the furniture. He called his brother and the latter, after glancing at the dead body, rushed off for Dr. Lovell, who lives nearly a mile away.

Meanwhile, an undertaker named Blaisdell had been called in and it was from him that the police obtained a description of the condition of the body; for instead of notifying the police of the affair, Blaisdell immediately began preparation of the body for burial, washing off nearly all the blood from the face and removing the stained bedclothes. From Blaisdell's statement it appears that the woman was lying in a natural position, but with her face almost covered with blood. The cheek bone was broken and the nose also, while there were marks on the throat as if made by a man's fingers. Dr. Lovell came to the house before Blaisdell had finished his work and immediately ordered him to stop and then sent for Medical Examiner Pinkham.

The cord between the window showed no signs of footprints and the police now feel that the murderer if he entered the house did not come in that way. Medical Examiner Pinkham, who had completed his autopsy, and had stated his belief that the woman had been murdered, during being caused possibly by strangulation after she had been rendered unconscious by a blow in the face.

William Brown, who is 42 years old, is a foreman in a local shoe shop and is spoken of very highly by his employers.

Ernest is two years younger than his brother, and is by occupation a driver, but has not been at work for some time. The family has some property consisting of two houses and other real estate, but it is said that both the men recently made over their shares to their mother.

FORT KNOX TROOPS

Will Probably be Called Back to Connecticut.

From recent events it is likely that the Connecticut troops, now stationed at Fort Knox, will be summoned back to Connecticut shortly.

Connecticut people have been very much displeased at the way their volunteer troops have been treated by the war department. On last Friday they sent a delegation to Washington to protest. It has just returned and reported a promise from Secretary Alger that the First regiment, the only one of the State now in the field, and the Yale artillery company should be ordered south at once. A conference was held in Washington. The Connecticut Congressional delegation, the two senators, Co. G. Osborn, Julius W. Curtiss, Morris Carter, Jno. John Addison Porter, secretary to President McKinley, were present. Senator Hawley presided.

The facts were laid before Secretary Alger, and it was promised that equipments would be sent at once, and that both the light and heavy artillery batteries would be ordered into service, if it was possible to do so. The men feel repaid for their visit, and are almost certain that something will be accomplished in the near future. It is predicted confidently that both batteries will receive their uniforms, guns and horses within a short time. The light artillery (Yale) will be ordered to Camp Alger near Washington, and the First regiment will be mobilized and sent south as a whole.

As the Fort Knox troops are a part of the First regiment, it is therefore probable that Maine will lose them.

EQUITY HEARING

Before Chief Justice Peters on Wednesday.

On Wednesday an equity hearing of Cole vs. Fickett was heard before Chief Justice Peters in the Supreme Court room. The case may be briefly stated as follows.

In 1891 William H. Hall, of Etna, had a deed of all of the Otis Carter homestead and farm. Subsequent by he conveyed a part of this farm to his brother, Fred Hall, giving a description and intending to convey two lots, but in reality conveying but one.

Fred Hall paid for two lots. Later William H. Hall conveyed the same lots to his mother, Emily T. Phelps, with the rest of the farm. Afterwards Fred Hall conveyed to Orrson W. Cole, by the same description, intending to convey what he obtained from his brother. His mother conveyed to the respondent Percy Fickett and F. Willis, the home stead farm which she obtained from W. W. Hall, including a lot by number which Cole had already bought and paid for.

The suit is brought to rectify the deeds and to see who owns Lot 21. Cole claims that it was under the name of the Kittredge Friend lot and that he bought it as such. Fickett claims that he bought two lots and supposed that the lots were all in the same range, but had no less that they bought Lot 21.

C. W. Bailey, Esq., appeared for the complainant, Cole, and Appleton & Chapin for the defendant, Fickett. The case will be continued this forenoon. The chances are that it will go to the law court.

BOY'S WILD RIDE.

Tore Down State Street Hill on Tricycle and Met With Disaster.

A small boy named Cominsky mounted a tricycle near J. D. Gilpin's on State street hill last evening after dark and was run away. He tore down the hill on the sidewalk and several pedestrians barely got out of the way. He whizzed by Robinson's drug store and got off the sidewalk onto the crosswalk safely and all would have been well if he could have steered into the street, but instead he went directly for the sidewalk at the East Side Pharmacy and struck the curbing.

Then there was a sudden stopping of the tricycle. The boy flew over the handle bars and dove ten feet or more along the sidewalk, striking on his face. He just missed striking the flag stone photograph pole. Dr. G. M. Woodbeck examined the boy in the drug store and found no broken bones. He was quite badly bruised but escaped most fortunately.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys.

Cure all kidney ills.

Hundreds of cities testify to this.

Here is a case in point.

Mr. J. Wentworth of No. 1 Jackson street, Bangor, states: "The second I derived from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills was so valuable. They worked my good opinion. For a long time I endured a sharp pain across the small of my back. I knew what caused it and as I read considerable about Doan's Kidney Pills in both Boston and Bangor papers, I thought I would try them and see if they would remove the trouble. I went to Ann Warren's drug store and got them. I was surprised as soon as they took hold. In a short time I had not a vestige of pain. This is something that no sufferer will soon forget and is the main reason why I wish others to know about Doan's Kidney Pills."

A BIG FISH.

Master Nat Ayer Landed a Forty Pound Salmon on New Brunswick Stream.

There is one happy boy in this city and he certainly has good reason to feel elated, as he has accomplished a feat that would quicken the pulse of the oldest and most experienced angler in the country.

Master Nat Ayer has the proud distinction of having landed the largest salmon taken from the Restigouche river this year. Last week he accompanied his father, F. W. Ayer, Esq., one of the most expert fishermen in the State, to the Restigouche fishing region, and when Master Nat made his lucky strike he was fishing in what is known as Alford Pool. The salmon when taken from the water must have weighed from thirty-eight to forty pounds, as it weighed thirty-seven and one-half pounds two or three days later, when it reached this city. This fish made a plucky fight, but Master Nat has been an old hand in the art of handling the rod for he landed his fish in a most successful manner. He has an experience he will never forget and he naturally takes great pride in his splendid capture.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUSES.

A meeting of the Republican city committee was held on Wednesday afternoon to call a caucus of Republican voters to choose delegates to the State, district and county conventions. A call was issued for a caucus on the evening of June 21, the call appearing in another column of this paper this morning.

At the meeting an attempt was made to call the caucus for the choice of candidates for representatives to the Legislature for next Wednesday evening, which would be most unusual. But as politics as the election does not take place until next September, but this was defeated. Secretary Frank T. Mason moved that a call be issued for a general caucus in City Hall for next Wednesday evening. This was opposed by Col. I. K. Stetson and Mr. John M. Oak on the ground that it would not be fair to the candidates—that more time was required and for other reasons. Mr. George M. Fletcher also opposed the general caucus, stating that he was pledged to ward caucuses with a vote direct for the candidates. He believed also that the caucus should not be called at such an early time. After some discussion Chairman Porter called for a vote and he and Mr. Mason and Mr. Hegerty voted for the motion, Messrs. Stetson, Oak, Fletcher and Cameron being opposed.

The city committee then adjourned to July 1.

Off board the Associated Press dispatch boat Dauntless, off Guantanamo Bay, Tuesday, June 14—Noon—via Kingston, Jm., Wednesday, June 15—8 A. M. There was no renewal of the attack on the marines last night. They kept in the trenches with their rifles beside them, protected by a heavy picket line of Insurgents and marines, under the command of Lieuts. Lemern and Smith. They had strict orders not to fire unless commanded to do so. There were several alarms, but no firing during the night. In consequence, the men awoke much refreshed after four days nights of continuous work of fighting. It was supposed the enemy had retired to the wind mill in the night on the south coast, the only remaining source of water supply. It was shelled at intervals all day yesterday by Cat Dolph a but the Spaniards were still there this morning.

At 5 o'clock the enemy made an unexpected sharp attack upon the American rear and left flank. When the attack came the reserves for relief the guerillas crept along behind them and got within 50 hundred yards, when the accidental discharge of a rifle in the trenches led them to believe that they were discovered and they opened fire with a volley which whistled harmlessly over their head. They shot too high, as usual and the marines then scrambled from their steaming coffee and "hard tack" back to the trenches and met the guerillas with a straggling but well directed fire. In addition two field pieces, mounted on angles in the trenches and the machine guns, poured a hail of bullets into the chaparral, scattering the main body of the Spaniards in all directions. Shells were dropped into their midst as they ran. A few of the enemy stood their ground on the left flank and the crack of the Mauser rifles and the pops of their bullets were heard rather thick even for an hour as the smokeless powder used by the Spaniards made their location in the dense underbrush almost impossible.

The Panther fired six-pounders into the Spaniards while the marines were engaged in beating off the attack.

Only one man was wounded, and he only sustained a slight injury on his hand.

The Cubans, who acted well last night, were with Huntington out of the skirmish line and some of them refused to be driven even when struck by their officers with the flat of their machetes. But they were not censured. They tried to work out their knowledge of the method of the Spanish guerillas in warfare and in lieu of service as guides, they are invaluable. Our men are at a great disadvantage with the guerillas, who are just generals of the peculiar design of campaign of savage rather than civilized warfare. The men slink through the tropical undergrowth as a snake slides, some with their naked bodies concealed with palm leaves so that they are hardly ever seen nor heard. Our men are not familiar with these tactics and are hard to crash through the bush.

Captain Elliott says the enemy could not stand a minute in the open, but he adds that they are dangerous antagonists at this sort of work. The marines, however, are seasoning rapidly.

The hospital ship Solace is in Guantanamo Bay with the wounded on board.

As the Dauntless left the bay the smoke of two Spanish gunboats in the inner harbor could be seen and the Dolphin stood up the channel to meet the attack, if the Spaniards had the audacity to make one.

When ten miles off shore the booming of guns could be heard and the harbor was veiled in smoke.

SECY GAGE DENIES REPORT.

Washington, June 15. The attention of Secretary Gage was called today to a cablegram from London quoting the St. James Gazette to the effect that subscriptions to the new war loan were being sought in London, Berlin, Paris and other continental centres. Secretary Gage made a emphatic denial that any steps of that character had been taken or were under consideration. He said: "The clear provision of the law is that the loan must be offered under such regulations to be prescribed by the Secretary of the treasury as will give opportunity to the citizens of the United States to participate in the subscriptions to such loan. No proposition will be received from citizens of the United States until the fullest opportunity to the people of the United States had been extended. There are no agencies that have been established by this government either in Great Britain or on the continent, and it is not contemplated to establish any."

SPANISH LOSSES HEAVY.

New York, June 15. The Journal has the following cablegram:

Camp McCalla, Guantanamo Harbor, June 15. The scouting parties of marines, which were sent out yesterday, returned here at 10 o'clock last night with 18 Spanish prisoners, one of them an officer.

The party also captured a hundred Mausers rifles and 10,000 rounds of ammunition.

They report having had a series of engagements with Spaniards, in which one hundred Spanish soldiers were killed and twelve hundred wounded.

They also destroyed a Spanish blockhouse and telegraph station, through which the Spaniards had been keeping Guantanamo and Santiago informed of the movements of American troops.

CHRONIC RHEUMATISM CURED.

Dr. H. B. Hettinger, Indianapolis, Ind., says: "For several months after straining my ankle I was severely afflicted with rheumatism. I finally tried Detchon's Mystic Cure for rheumatism, and in four days could walk without my cane; two bottles cured me. Sound and well." A great pleasure in recommending the Mystic Cure to all who are afflicted with rheumatism." Sold by J. L. Mountain & Co., 83 Main street, and Caldwell Sweet, druggists, Bangor, Me.

United States camp, Guantanamo Bay, June 14, 8 P. M., by the Associated Press despatch boat Wanda, via Kingston, Jm., June 15, 12.30 P. M. The United States marines under Lieut. Col. Huntington made the first aggressive movement against the Spanish guerillas today and routed them. The marines were under Capt. Elliott and the co-operating Cubans under Col. Laborde. The combined forces raided a Spanish camp five miles from the Aleer position, destroyed the only well in the vicinity and killed about forty.

One American was slightly wounded. Two Cubans were killed and four wounded. It is impossible to estimate the number of Spaniards engaged, but it is believed that there were at least 400. The marines behaved splendidly, their marksmanship being excellent even under heavy fire.

The captured camp lay about five miles from the ridge pits of the marines, and was an important base for the guerillas. It contained the only well for miles. Col. Huntington decided on this attack early in the day, and about 8 o'clock the force started across the mountain. The march under the glaring sun was severe.

It was noon when the Americans caught sight of the Spanish camp. The Americans began a cautious advance and were within 200 yards before the Spaniards discovered them.

Very few Spaniards were in sight, but the puffs of smoke revealed their positions and enabled the Americans to do effective work.

For twenty minutes both sides maintained a terrific fire. The Spanish shots were generally wild and spasmodic, while the Americans coolly fired aimed. It was beginning to look as though a bayonet charge would be necessary to dislodge the enemy, when suddenly the latter began to break for a back further on. It was then the Americans were became most deadly.

As the enemy began breaking, the Dolphin, which lay out at sea, was signalled and began pelting shells toward the thicket. Before reinforcements could reach the scene the rapidly was all over.

DEFENSIVE OPERATIONS.

(Copyright 1898 by Associated Press.)

Off Santiago de Cuba, Saturday, June 11 (4 P. M.), per the Associated Press despatch boat Wanda, via Kingston, Jm., June 12 (7 P. M.). Rear Admiral Sampson and Commodore Schley with the combined forces, are slowly but surely placing such a network about Santiago de Cuba and are cutting off so effectually every source of outside aid that within a short time starvation's tapping will give why to death's solid knock for surrender at the doors of the defeated place. Within three days three separate sources of supply and reinforcement have been cut off and Santiago de Cuba is now isolated from the world and is down to famine rations.

When Admiral Cervera arrived at Santiago with his fleet, the people, they welcomed him for the relief they thought he would bring, but instead of food he brought them seven hundred more men to feed.

A corp of the harbor furnished today by insurgent spies shows that after the bombardment of the harbor forts by Commodore Schley on Tuesday, May 31, the Spanish cruiser Reina Mercedes, which was disabled, was towed into the bay behind the Socapa battery, where she lies with two torpedo boats. Half a mile further up, under lee of Cay Smith and the mortar batteries, is the Vizcaya, commanding with her broadsides the narrow entrances to the east and west of Cay Smith. Half a mile north and at the gate of the third narrow entrance, lies the Almirante Oquendo and half a mile to the northeast are the Cristobal Colon and the Maria Teresa. The ships are about a mile and a half from the city proper, shallow water forbidding them to go much closer.

The sunken collier Merrimac is directly in the narrow part of the channel.

Houses for Annexation.

The bottom seems to have dropped in Congressional circles out of the alleged opposition to the annexation resolutions in the House. The opponents demanded a couple of days for debate, and they were accorded it. Evidently some of them thought they had some chance to delay the consideration of the resolutions, if not to defeat them, by a long debate. The argument made by Representative Clark, of Missouri, in opposition to the annexation of Hawaii, which he opened by reading a letter from Admiral Walker, in which the Admiral said that the Hawaiian Islands were of no value to us as a naval station, and that our naval experts were entirely in accord in their views, concerning the importance of the annexation of these islands as a war measure. Other gentlemen advanced equally important views, and the subject was more or less discussed, many talking to their heart's content. The vote, however, shows that practically no one, but the speakers, signed up to "stock" in these alleged arguments. When the ballot was taken the resolution was passed by a vote of 209 to 91. The action of the House reflects the sentiment of the country. A majority of the Senate is also undoubtedly in favor of annexation. The difficulty in that body may be in getting a vote, but after the big majority recorded for the resolution in the House, it is not believed that any prolonged attempt to filibuster against the resolution will be undertaken. The Senate has been unusually busy of late, and a majority of the members have shaded in intention to hold that body in session until a vote is taken. In spite of the fact that the debate against annexation failed to influence a vote in the House, we suppose Solons will have to speak on the question at more or less length, but the majority will not be seriously to thwart the will of the majority.

A Peculiar Distinction.

The Commercial declares that it did not charge the late hospital commission with dishonesty, but only "such careless ness as is the warranted misuse of the appropriation," "no doubt had mal-administration," "a misappropriation," and the "misapplication and misappropriation of public funds." These may be "careful terms," but they are not terms calculated to impress the public with the idea that the Commercial placed a premium on the integrity of the commission. This we said was going beyond the limit of the evidence, and we reiterate that statement. We are not trying to "gild the lily" the "misdeeds" of the commission, nor do we propose to be dragged into a discussion of the question whether the funds as were wasted in the best position. All that is ancient history. We do say, however, that to differ with the plans of the commission does not necessitate an assault upon the integrity of the members. Neither is it argument to say, "It's a mighty dollar" that portrays the character of one of the members when the bill including salaries for all three members of the commission. No doubt it would have been cheaper for the State had the commission walked and carried a lunch, which for a lunch, but evidently the State did not expect its representatives to travel in that way, as all of the accounts now objected to by the Commercial were fully approved by the Governor and Council. Aside from all this, for it remains, as was stated by the Whig, the appropriation could not have passed the Legislature had the commission eliminated the commission.

England and America.

The London Chronicle says: "By far the most important news of the day is that just by our special commissioner in Washington, to the effect that the immediate differences between Great Britain and the United States in respect of Canada have practically been obliterated, that a modus vivendi has been arrived at, and that there is an agreement to refer a joint commission to which all pending disputes shall be submitted. This was stated by Sir Julian Pauncefote, and the officials of the American State Department have last night."

The news will be received by all parties in this country with keen pleasure and entire satisfaction. The foundations have been laid, and we are convinced that the fabric of Anglo-American unity will reach its appropriate crown. Nothing of course, in the nature of an arrangement usually suggested by a secret treaty is already in existence. Great and self-respecting nations do not make such other in this fashion. The more deliberately we build the more enduring will be the final structure. For ourselves, we should welcome, in any great political necessity which should result from it, the consolidation of a definite Anglo-American alliance, based on mutual support.

We believe that in the times that are to come the two divisions of the Anglo-Saxon commonwealth will have increasing need of each other, both for moral and for material help. We need not, in fair, dwell on the universally depreciatory tone of the power of this Empire, suggest that in such a contingency we should be asking more from the States than we should accept at their hands. That navy of Great Britain is still the greatest material force in the world. Our wealth and credit represent, if possible, a still more valuable asset.

* * * The States must see as their own high destiny bids them, nerve and assist the policy of restoring a measure of order and life in the West Indies and the Philippine dependencies. There is no young imperialism here, only the kind of problem that confronts us wherever we step from our side, the white man's zone. But if the policy of expansion is forced on America there can be no doubt that a period of great trial, and may be of prolonged pain, is before her. We have no doubt what would be the ultimate success. No people of to-day is better equipped for their place in the world. But it will greatly shorten and simplify the task of the States if we have assured that while they are taking their share in the task work of civilization, British policy and the British Navy are doing as their reserve force. That we are convinced will [illegible] Dewey's conflagration of bonds of red tape, if it is to be done, is a task for America. She wants the work done. Mr. Bryan, in his speech, refers to Mr. Gladstone's speech of "permanent alliance of the nations as the basis of the future relations of the two countries." That is [illegible] the [illegible] work is by one or other of the two nations, we have proved to [illegible] the [illegible] for all [illegible] and most [illegible] the good of the [illegible]

Our Responsibilities.

The New York Independent says: "If we place at what we must undertake in the Philippines it was true, as we said, [illegible] the Spanish [illegible] Manila [illegible] in this war beyond California. A nation that would go back to the Philippines is also a world power, [illegible] wrested from its grasp. We can return every one of the Philippines to any hand other than Spain without endangering the balance which keeps Europe at peace. We must hold the Philippines. Either to confine this war between these waning [illegible] or to make our victory bear fruit in the peace permanently the Philippines we must hold. The same is true, and for the same reasons, both of Cuba and Porto Rico. What we gain in the cause of humanity we must control in the name of civilization."

A further duty is imposed. Between our Asiatic possessions and our West Indian, the Nicaraguan Canal must be finished and taken water course. Otherwise the balance of gain between our old States on the East and our new States on the West, in a war in which both sections bear equal burdens and win equal honors, would be impaired. No one part of our Union should be built up at the expense of another part. The Nicaragua Canal is the insurance of equality of gain by commerce to our Atlantic and to our Pacific coasts. It will bind our Union by the sympathies of equal seas as firmly as our transcontinental railroads have bound it by the roads of equal States. He who does not this sees to little. It is expensive interest in the railroads lines him to the necessity of holding the canal and for the necessity for holding the islands which we get by force of right and by right of force. Its views should be discounted where he warping reasons for them are understood.

Imperial America—imperial in the magnitude of its expansion and in the moral grandeur of its mission—is not an idea to appall the descendants of men who carried our domain by successive acquisitions, and some of them by war, from the Potomac to the Ohio, from the Ohio to the Mississippi, from the Gulf to the Lakes and from the Rio Grande to either Portland. Every such acquisition has lifted our nation from congested continentalism to the adventurous patriotism of taking occasion by the hand to make the bounds of freedom broader yet. Stagnation is the letter that killeth; expansion is the spirit that maketh and keepeth alive. Of nothing of which we are not ashamed need we be afraid, nor need we fear its consequences. Neither the career of our country in the past, nor its unencumbered, mission in the future should give to us any reason for shame or fear; and the voices of the world which call us to duty and to destiny, in the regeneration of that world should be answered by the readiness and by the resolution of our own hearts.

ATHLETICS AND SPORTS.

"Of the men that Mike Murphy has developed since coming to Pennsylvania," says a Quaker, "Cowlesbury, Kraenzlein and McCracken are his most wonderful pupils. Cowlesbury entered the dental school in the fall of 1891, unknown to anyone as a sprinter. As a matter of fact, he had never worn a running shoe, but in response to the general call for track candidates, presented himself with a number of others for training. His lofty possibilities attracted Murphy's attention the first time he saw him run. After a month's work he predicted a bright future for the tall Pennsylvanian, which has already in part been verified. Cowlesbury has all the most wonderful stride of any sprinter Murphy has ever handled. It is confidently expected that he will low or tie records for the 220 and 440 yard runs. In these distances his lengthy stride makes him particularly fast, and Murphy believes that under favorable conditions he will break the record times in the Intercollegiate without much trouble. Kraenzlein, whose feat of track novelty in entering Pennsylvania, owes his record-breaking performances to Murphy's distinctive training methods. A naturally-born athlete, he has gained some prominence in the West as a good all-round athlete, representing Pennsylvania. While his form in the low hurdles is not as graceful as it might be, it is difficult to understand how better results could be derived if this were improved. Murphy considers him to be the best all-round athlete in the country. Before coming to Pennsylvania McCracken had never seen a 16-pound shot. Considering his inexperience, his development in the two years that he have been putting in the weights has been little short of remarkable. McCracken is one of the most conscientious men that ever trained, which, combined with Murphy's coaching, has resulted in his looking all records for the 16-pound shot. During the summer he expects to better his throw of 43 feet 8 inches. Of the other men Murphy has developed since coming to Pennsylvania, Petterman, Hoffman, Merlin, Grant, Remington, Winsor and Longwell are the best. Petterman, Winsor and Longwell have shown unusual promise. Since Murphy's engagement at Pennsylvania, but their superior performances were in spite the fact of his coaching. Longwell is 10 feet 3 inches in the pole vault, and is further evidence of a competent trainer. By next year it is expected that he will prove a point winner in the Intercollegiate. Among the other men who did excellent work for the first year, and who are expected to do better next year, are Little, Tarty, Earnshaw, McGlin, Hare and McMahon."

F. M. McKinley has been elected captain of next year's Cornell lacrosse team.

"The reason Kid McCoy decided not to box Joe Choynski before the Lenox Club on June 27," says a sporting man, "is not here. Kid McCoy looked over the crowds at the Lord-Barry, McCartland-Duffy and Dixon-Barry contests and decided that the percentage system of dividing the gate receipts was not up to the mark. Hodgson, a prominent O'Rourke, offered $1,500 purse offer for the contest. McCoy made very little money out of the contest with Robinson at Syracuse, so he is altogether too shrewd to take any more chances. The contest at $7,500 is a special event, and I hope that it will not be decided out of town, for I want to see it and don't care to journey to Buffalo."

The wonderful work of which Mike Murphy at Berkeley Oval last year, when contrasted with the performances of his pupils, has excited much comment at highly favorable to the champions. Nine records were shattered and the standard of the performances compared favorably with the intercollegiate standard of six years ago. When school boys ran 100 yards in 10 10, 220 yards in 22 2-5, 440 yards in 51 1-5, 880 yards in 2:01 2-5, and one mile in 4:22, old athletes predicted to open their eyes with astonishment. The surprise increased when they consider that the winner of the high jump had to lower his bar at 6 feet 2 inch, and the broad jump was won with 21 feet 2 inches. In what other country can schoolboys be found who equal the sons of the Oaks of the United States? If the improvement continues our American schoolboy champions will soon be challenging the winners of the intercollegiate, and before long they will probably want to send a team to England to beat the best they have over there.

Tom Shirley, the heavy-weight pugilist, is now at New Derby, R. I., where he will train for his contest with Gus Ruhlin before the Coney Island Club on June 29. Shirley says that he wants an opportunity to show that he can box fairly and without fouling his opponent. He will have his chance when he meets Ruhlin, for the Ohio man's manager and second will see to it that the Sailor does not get away with any fouls. Shirley has many complaints to make about his treatment at the hands of the San Francisco clique, and Tom refuses to box any more there. If he fears Ruhlin he intends to challenge Mitchell and Fitzsimmons. But in his treatment of challenges Fitzsimmons is now giving indications of wanting to back out, and Shirley's hopes of a fight for him are surely faced with disappointment.

Tommy Creed is to be matched with Billy O'Donnell at 124 pounds.

Mike Bauser, of Elizabeth, wants to box Larry Becker, of Bayonne, or Geo. McFadden.

Kid McPartland and Matty Matthews have signed to box twenty rounds at Coney Island on June 15.

Ben Jordan, the English featherweight champion, has started in to train for his mill with George Dixon. Jordan is located at Benny Murphy's roadhouse on the Boulevard, near Coney Island.

Spider Kelly, of San Francisco, has come East with Tom Shirley, which he is in shape to make a match with some good lightweight. Kelly is regarded in the Pacific coast as a champion. He fights at 133 pounds.

The tardiness of Dave Sullivan in answering the challenge of Snipes Kelly is evidently worrying the latter. Sullivan's action so far has not been calculated to bring Sullivan to time, and the N. H. boy insists on voiding him he will go elsewhere for a match.

Charlie Griffith, California middleweight, is looking for a match. Billy Madden, Griffith's manager, sends word to the Sun from Mechanicville, N. Y., that he will make a fight against Bob Fitzsimmons, Kid McCoy or Jim Corbett at 158 pounds. Griffith is a 158-pound fighter and one of the best of the lightweights.

Hon. Wm. C. Whitney, ex-Secretary of the Navy, has issued a challenge to Gideon & Daly, their 2-year-old Joe Bascom.

Lake Bellair, of Hartford, 1900 champion of the Burwell-Bellair and Pistol Club, made a 25 yard low average score of 19 in the recent shoot, to surpass the Alderson record of 19 shot at that record, 97, 94, 95, 94, 92, 4 2 total 95. This score is the best previous amateur performance by 4 points and 1 point of the professional record of Spencer Fox 2 points. The shoot was witnessed by the president of Winchester and many other prominent men.

An unusual feature of the scheme of cricket now will be that Frankfort Field Monday afternoon, by many interested spectators, F. D. Keene and Max H. Bolger, both of the Boston Club, fought out a single wicket game. Keene won the toss and faced his opponent with confidence. With the score at 5 he has skillfully retired. Bolger then took the bat and knocked up 6 in good form. He was finally bowled by a smart fast break. Keen in his second attempt displayed some brilliant batting and was not retired before he had piled up 53. That bowling and batting are too much for one man was evidenced when Bolger began the second attempt with the wicket down, as he was retired for two runs by a bailer.

BELFAST NEWS.

A Wandering Musician Who Can Play Anything From a Bass Drum to a Slide-Trombone—Home Burned—Notes.

(Special to Whig and Courier.)

Belfast, June 14. A wandering German musician strayed into a hand rehearsal Monday evening, and after listening for a while to the music asked to be allowed to take part of a side from home. One of the members of the band gave up his place to the stranger, who rendered his part with great ease and correctness. Before the rehearsal was over he had had a hand at the baritone and bass horn and was found to be equally as good on one as the other, playing an exceptionally fine baritone. He sailed from Pit shield, where for a few weeks he has played double bass with the orchestra, but getting of so long a stay in one place left them inconvenienced by.

The farm-house owned and occupied by Martin Black and located in Northport was burned Tuesday night, with all the furnishings. Value $900. Partially insured.

IS JAMAICA SENDING CUBA SUPPLIES?

New York, June 16. A special from Kingston, Jam., quotes an officer of the British cruiser Tyndot as saying that supplies in small quantities are reaching Havana across the island from Batabano and apparently from Jamaica.

The Turkish Consulate changed Saturday to the English flag and completed her cargo of 8,000 packages of flour, rice and corn. She will sail for Cuba. She endeavored to obtain an English Captain.

Consul Dent formally protested. He maintained it was a direct violation of neutrality and that the American government will not supplies Cuba, probably with the vessels now in the possession of his government.

The Boston Dynamiter has also succeeded in changing her flag and will load for Mariquillo.

The Spanish tender, Manuel Raoul arrived from Montego Bay Friday, endeavoring to obtain a cargo of supplies for Mariquillo.

Unless immediate action is taken by the American government, the Kingston despatch says, the blockade will be practically nullified by supplies reaching the blockaded ports from Jamaica.

Merchants here are soliciting for Spanish purchasers at famine prices, and are speculating heavily in food stuffs.

Much suspicion has been aroused, that Kingston the correspondent says by the character of the cargo of the city of Kingston, which has arrived from New York. Her cargo consists of 4,000 tons of potatoes, 125 bags of corn and 175 kegs of tobacco, 1,000 boxes of rice, 200 barrels and 1,800 bags of flour. The cargo seems much too large for a single trip to handle the ordinary trade, and is believed to be destined for transportation to Cuba for the Spanish troops.

"THE FORTUNATE ISLES."

Tenerife and the Canaries—Intense Ignorance of the Inhabitants Regarding the War and Foreigners—Splendid Resources Neglected.

(Boston Transcript.)

We were probably the last Americans in Tenerife and were glad to get away when the crisis became acute. Not that we were in danger or insulted, but only unpleasantly watched, stared at and whispered about. To be sure, the Spaniards, even the poorest and most ignorant, are quite courteous to strangers, and always less excitable than Frenchmen or Italians. But we knew that they had already smashing the windows of the American Consul's house and there was no telling what they might do to a pair of impudent Yankees strolling about the streets. This did not prevent me from "sizing up" the forts of the place. They are trumpery affairs, mounted with old-fashioned guns, and could be knocked to pieces in "twinkling" by Uncle Sam's warships. Except for the new earthworks and scrap piles which may have been created since we left, there is absolutely nothing to protect Santa Cruz from an attack by the sea—no natural defenses, no guarded approaches. A fleet can sail in as close as it likes with plenty of deep water. The city slopes back to the hills, every white house affording a target. Don't hit the fields, for this cost Spain a point of money and years to build. When completed it will be worth to the United States or England an owner of Tenerife. Quien sabe? I saddled as the Florida say—at several redows and parades of troops. The men are above the average height, wiry and tough, absolutely absent of French and Italian soldiers, well equipped and drilled and admirably officered. At Cuneche's table d'hote we had a taste of the officers every day. The army and navy were in force there, quite dignified and the pink of courtesy. Twice we met the bodies they would send Madrid papers that had just arrived, full of canards and appeals designed to fire the Spanish heart against Yankees and the English sympathizers. But they never made a gesture or shot a glance or said a word to offend the Britishers or Anglo-Saxons generally. The name of the host's good Yankeeness was not under their gold-laced jackets the slower and more self-restrained, they seemed to be. It will never do to underrate Spaniards in Cuba or elsewhere. They are formidable and proud. Their great fault—which is the national fetish—is the adherence until it is putting off till tomorrow what might be done today. Apart from that, shrewdness they are common worthy of our steel. They are more likely to spend and die for their trucks with Castilian pride than to run at the first fire.

We know little about Spaniards in actual contact with them, they know less about us. They are most certainly, if possible, of all Europeans, those the French themselves. Volumes could not say more. And this Madrid Times is absolutely sincere, their blindness is quite willful and reckless investigation of the resources of the United States. The latter people of the Canaries give the same tone of humbug and delusion. Dewey's glorious victory at Manila is already explained away. They expect better luck at Santa Cruz and Las Palmas. Whereas, really, the climate of the whole Canary group is incredible compared with that of the Philippines. Dewey, of course, as a job for the navy, and military occupation of the islands is another matter.

If England gets involved in a fine quarrel, at any point, that is as likely to happen as the Canaries as elsewhere, Englishmen have large interests at stake there. They run two lines of steamers—the Castle and the Union on South Africa, touching at the Canaries will passengers one freight one each week New Zealand and several to West Africa. Both Santa Cruz and Las Palmas are good repairing and coaling stations for the longer voyages. English capital is building great first-class hotels on the islands. One at Orotava, Tenerife, cost, at least $200,000, including the spacious grounds exquisitely laid out with palms and flowers. There are the winter homes of hundreds of English invalids or fliers. Now, imagine the Scottish dukes of England, as the good friend of the United States, prejudiced to an extreme point. Fancy some vexatious obstruction put to the landing of John Bull's passengers and freight or the coaling of his ships. Any little needless delay or hitch-degree would be very annoying to him. Suppose a move to confiscate or levy a discriminating tax on English property of most serious of all—some outrage inflicted on Her Britannic Majesty's Consul or insult to the Union Jack? Any of these things are possible. And it would be just like Spain to meddle diplomatically about amends and policies, with the desperate hope of enlisting France on her side. And so John Bull, who is not in the habit of pocketing affronts and turning the other cheek to the smiter, might be driven to take a hand in the game of war. If so, goodby to the Spanish flag in the Canaries.

What a splendid prize for Uncle Sam or our sturdy old friend! It is islands to our possession we could trade them off with him, say, for the Bahamas, which are handier for us. Or we might present them to him. They are fine, want the dear old boy is so fond of picking up all over the globe. Nature has placed them there for coal lines exactly in the track of his enormous commerce with Africa New Zealand and the West India colonies. The miserable shiftlessness of the Spaniards has left their great potential resources lie unused and undeveloped. Since the collapse of the cochineal industry, owing to the discovery of aniline dyes, nothing has been introduced to take its place. English capital, under the protection of the English flag, would exploit all the great resources of the Canaries and add much to the world's wealth and happiness. All of the profitable products of the subtropics as well as of more temperate regions, can be grown easily and cheaply. And then, as a sanitarium and playground of the kind that J. B. so deeply loves for a refuge from his smoky, rainy, fog and hard work, they cannot be bettered anywhere. You can have any climate, you want by trying different heights.

In rambling at least, the Spaniards are not degenerate scions of the old Latin stock. The roads between the principal points of Tenerife are perfect by macadamized, wide enough most of the way for three or four carriages abreast and wind on and up with easy grades. For the dead of winter there is always Santa Cruz on the south side, basking in the sun and never too warm for free outdoor life with comfort. For the spring, summer and fall there is Orotava, with its entrancing view, preferred by many visitors to Santa Cruz for a cooler, whiter residence by reason of its northerly exposure and bracing sea breeze.

WAR DEPARTMENT CONTRADICTS REPORT.

Washington, June 15. An authoritative statement was made at the war department today contradicting the reports from Chickamauga that 15,000 troops have been ordered to move at once. It is said that the orders sent to the commanding officer at Chickamauga direct the equipping and arming of the troops at the earliest possible moment. This, however, is in line with the general policy of hurrying up preparations along the line. The ordered movement of 15,000 men.

CHERRYFIELD WOMAN.

Cherryfield, Me., June 10, 1893. Mrs. Elvira S. Tucker, of this town, states that she has taken several bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla for a faint stomach, and has cured her. Prepared, sections, etc. Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is a medicine which seems to have a magic touch in cases of stomach trouble, gives a good appetite and good digestion.

STATION CONTINUES CRITICAL.

Madrid, June 15. A despatch received here from Capt. Gen. Augusti dated Manila, June 1, says:

"The situation continues critical. The enemy surround the town. We have drawn our lines closer around the city and strengthened our intrenchments. Communication is still cut. I have no news of him.

"The white population of the suburbs fearing they will be massacred on the rebels, and preferring to risk the hardships of the town, and will assist in its defense. I do not know what the battle of Imperial will commence."

ARRIVAL OF SURVIVORS

Of the Wreck of the Gypsum Princess.

New York, June 15. The North German Lloyd steamer Elbe arrived here afternoon from Bremen and brought the rescued survivors of the schooner Gypsum Princess, of Parrsboro, N. S., which was sunk in the mid Atlantic. The vessel was loaded with gypsum, and during a heavy sea on the morning of the 3rd inst. the cargo shifted, and the vessel began to fill. The crew worked at the pumps and bailed for dear life, but the water gained on them. At noon the vessel was in a sinking condition, and the crew left her in the boats. The boats were in a terrible condition, and the crew had to bail with their hats. The vessel was in the middle of the ocean, and the boats were in sight of land. The crew had to row for the nearest port, which was Cape Ray, Newfoundland. The crew had a terrible time of it, and the survivors were in a pitiable condition. The crew was composed of Captain Lewis, of Parrsboro, N. S., and his wife, and a crew of 8 men, all of Parrsboro, N. S., except one, who was from Windsor, N. S., and one from Liverpool, N. S. The Gypsum Princess was lost while trying to save his wife and children. The old man, who was an active, was also lost.

The lost were Captain Lewis, Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. Morrison, Edgar Morrison, the mate and three children, aged 14 years of age, the other 8 years and Samuel Marple, the cook.

The Gypsum Princess was built at Parrsboro, N. S., in 1892 and was owned by Lewis King & Co. Her tonnage was 600. The Eastern made a distinct.

MURDER OR SUICIDE?

A Tragedy on the Kennebec.

Hallowell, Me., June 15. The death of Everett White, a resident of Hallowell and Togus, from a bullet wound early this morning led to the belief that it had been murdered. The facts, which were gathered from the authorities, show that the circumstances called for an inquest, and until the conclusion of the coroner's inquest the question of whether or not White was the victim of foul play will be left to surmise. Mrs. White, who is a sister, who lives in Gardiner, the family, declare that the man killed himself, but John Regan, who boarded with the family, contradicts the statement.

It appears from different accounts of the affair that White came home last night at about 2 o'clock, this morning, with a pistol bagged. At the time, the Wright family and Regan, the boarder, were in the house. The neighbors say that they had been awakened by the household and that gunshots were heard in the vicinity. Moreover, yesterday the authorities made a successful search for bullets in the house for which purpose they took up the carpets and cleaned the floors. Regan was arrested and taken to the county jail in Augusta. The prisoner denies the charge of murder, and says that White was in good health and spirits when he was killed.

White was about 23 years of age. His wife was about the same age. They had been married about 12 months. Mrs. White states that her husband had been under the influence of liquor and that she was very much afraid of him when he was drunk.

Of the exact circumstances attending the death of Mrs. White and Regan refuse to talk. Hence the residents of the vicinity are anxiously awaiting for the coroner's developments.

MORE TROOPS REPORTED GOING TO THE FRONT.

Chickamauga National Park, June 15. They report that fifteen regiments are to leave Camp Thomas for the front in the next few days is the main subject of interest in the camp today, and it is being eagerly discussed by both officers and men. It is impossible to confirm the report as the army officials refuse to discuss it.

It is understood that the 8th, 9th, 12th and 13th New York, the 5th and 8th Illinois, 1st, 4th, 10th and 16th Pennsylvania, 4th Ohio and 8th Missouri will be among the first to be ordered to the front. Today every regiment is drilling and maneuvering.

Major Nye, department commissary of subsistence of the volunteer army, says that there is abundance of good and wholesome food on hand.

SPANISH SHIPS FIRED UPON.

(Copyright 1893 by Associated Press.)

Off Santiago de Cuba, Saturday, June 11 (3 P. M.), via Kingston, Jam., Sunday, June 12 (7 P. M.). On Tuesday, June 7, while working near Cuberizero, 12 miles from Santiago de Cuba, Lieut. Commander Delehanty, of the converted lighthouse service boat, Suwanee, saw two sloops trying to run ashore up the river Aserradero. He fired at them and they were run ashore and deserted. Later 1 boat crew from the Suwanee captured them. Each of the sloops was provided with a Spanish flag and supplies. There was also on board a heliograph for signaling purposes. The flag and heliograph were taken as spoils of war. One of the sloops was presented to the Cubans and the other, which already had a few holes in it, was sunk by shots from the Suwanee.

RAILROAD MATTERS.

Leases Ratified by Stockholders.

New Haven, Ct., June 15. The meeting of stockholders of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company took place upon the leases of the New England and Shepaug roads was held in this city today, about thirty stockholders attending.

In reply to questions of stockholders President Clark said that the dividends to the New Haven Co.'s stockholders for the New England and Shepaug roads would be the prospect of dividends. The stockholders were informed that the prospect of dividends and rentals for 1893 was better than for the past year.

Contracts for the Shepaug road were ratified and the women's suffrage question was left to the directors.

THEY WERE NOT

Portsmouth, N. H., June 15. Jas. Burke and Thos. Wright, of whom was reported yesterday fatally injured in a fight in the engine room of Gloucester, were sent from the navy yard here to the Portsmouth hospital. Burke was from Mendi. He was very quarrelsome, while Wright was a fearless man, and had a wife and two children in Portsmouth. In command, in charge of the service.

Rev. G. B. Haskell, of Monson, who has been in attendance on the Congregational conventions, was called home this morning to attend a funeral.

Last evening, as on all the Congregational conventions, and largely increased, attendance and the exercises were very interesting. At 7:30 Mr. McAllister, of East Sangerville, conducted a social service. W. S. Shude, of Buckmanstown, Md., a scripture reading and offering prayer. At 8 Mrs. J. S. Penman of Dover, gave one of the most elegant addresses we hear in this church, speaking of the different reformations through which our religion of today have gone through and showed that despite the many changes of forms in worship our faith is just as strong today as it was sixteen hundred years ago.

Prof. C. H. Hall, Ropes of Bangor, made an eloquent appeal on behalf of foreign missions. Mr. Pennell said he could fit foreign missionary work the statement of Paul, "I am a Greek who knows anything but this—ask her husband at home," and safely be changed to "If a man would know anything about foreign missionary work let his wife at home." And all the women were far ahead of the men in this work. "Our missionary work," said Mr. Pennell, "is divided into three parts, the field, the force and the funds, and he said that both the field and force were large enough and the only hinderings were the funds.

Wednesday morning, the Woman's Missionary meeting was held. Mrs. E. J. Meyrose sided in a good song, and a devotional talk was given by Mrs. L. P. Evans, Rev. Norman McKinnon, Rev. W. O. Crosby and Rev. W. A. Richmond. The reports of the churches were next in order and the following reported: Blanchard, Brownville, Dover, Dover and Foxcroft, Guilford, Lakeside, Greenville and Abbott. With one exception the reports showed encouraging progress in the work for the past year. Maj. C. J. B. Woodbury, county treasurer of the society, read his report, which showed that when the convention was over the debt would amount to about $80 and suggested that this sum should be assessed pro rata among the churches as he believed it unfair for those who spent their time at these conventions to be called to pay the expenses. Rev. Mr. Davison moved that a committee of three be appointed to consider the matter and the chair was instructed to appoint Mr. Woodbury's suggestion so that the committee was to be composed of Mr. Woodbury and Deacon L. P. Evans was chosen.

After the reports had been adopted, Miss Elizabeth Merrill of Brownville read an excellent paper on "How can we increase the interesting of women in the church?" The last subject was "What is the purpose of the mid-week prayer, and how can it be obtained?" by Rev. W. O. Crosby, of Brownville, who thought this subject could be obtained first, by a good effort to attend all the meetings, second by not allowing the meetings to become too long and dull, third, always to use short, strong, energetic and wide-awake, and fourth to never speak in a despondent manner.

In the afternoon Rev. Mr. Towne gave an very interesting talk on the objects and accomplishments of the "Work and the Worker." The sermon of the afternoon was by Rev. T. W. Harwood, of Garland, on "How can we obtain more humility and a better understanding with each other?" This address was eloquent and forcible. The communion service was conducted by Rev. Charles Davison, of Greenville, and Rev. T. W. Harwood, of Garland. The congregation sang "Nearer My God to Thee" and the convention was closed with the benediction by Rev. T. W. Harwood. This convention has been one of the most successful and the attendance of delegates has been large. The Dover and Foxcroft parish gave the delegates a fine reception and they were much pleased with their visit. The next convention will be held in Brownville. Rev. G. M. Packard was chosen delegate and C. C. Lee alternate to the State convention in Orono.

Little Chaudda, a Indian village in Wisconsin, its chief manufacture is wooden shoes. The people are as thoroughly Dutch as their progenitors. The town is on ground where Pere Marquette had his winter quarters and where the Dutch priests instructed the Indians.

Jesse Lowe, of Dayton, Wash., 65 years old, was awakened from a nap on a couch down stairs in her home by a dream that a certain upstairs room was afire. She went upstairs and found it just as in the dream it had been pictured and she put out the fire.

Liver Trouble

When the yellow flag of quarantine is hoisted over a dwelling it means disease and danger. So when the yellow flag flies in the face—when the cheek is sallow and the clear white of the eye is dyed saffron—there is danger. It is liver trouble. The liver is one of the most important organs of the body. On its proper discharge of its functions depend human health and happiness. When the liver fails of its duty, poisons at once begin to generate, and other organs of the body become involved. Never neglect the liver if you value health. If you are suffering from liver trouble, begin at once the use of AYER'S PILLS and you will find prompt relief and permanent cure.

"I was so weakened by liver trouble that I could scarcely lift my head. While in this condition I began the use of Ayer's Pills, and finding almost immediate benefit, continued their use until I was cured of my complaint. H. R. W. BENTLEY, Tanner, N. D.

MACHIAS NEWS.

Story of Shipwreck Told by Capt. Johnson.

Terrible Experience of the Crew—Many News Notes of General Interest.

[Special to Whig and Courier.]

Machias, June 15. Capt. Ulmer Johnson arrived here Saturday and related an experience of shipwreck while on board his vessel, the Florence E. Tower. He related his story to the Whig reporter as follows: June 2 he sailed from this port with a cargo of lumber for J. R. Ames, which was consigned to Wellman, Fill & Co., of Boston. All went well until the next day, when about 8 o'clock in the evening it was found that the vessel was leaking and in a sinking condition. They at once shortened sail and manned the pumps but by 10 o'clock the water was gaining on them very rapidly and at 11 o'clock the vessel filled and they were obliged to construct a raft to keep themselves from drowning. After some time spent in repairing the small boat which had been stove in they succeeded in landing at York Beach in a very exhausted condition, but were met by friendly people. Capt. A. W. Bowden, of that place took Capt. Johnson and his two sailors to his home and received them to as much comfort as possible. The life saving station was then notified and put out in a gale which blew the vessel and cargo southward into foot, which was valued in all at $8000. After taking some bills those who were left enough left to pay the balance of the expense. The captain was pretty well scared, and was in doubt whether or not he would ever take to the sea again.

The Sonia pile driver which has been at work on the W. C. R. R. in this city took up its march for Columbia Falls. It took two horses to haul the outfit.

Lewis Hallway is erecting a building on his wharf about 18 by 50 feet to use as a wood shed. Mr. Hallway believes in being industrious, although he says "I can only make 20 cents per cord on this wood beside my wages for self and horse."

Miss Maine Waterhouse, Gardiner, is visiting Mrs. Horace Gardiner of this place.

Mrs. Lucinda Case, of Port Gamble, Wash., is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Lavinda Crocker at Marshfield.

All the public schools at this place closed Friday except the high and grammar, which will continue two weeks longer.

A. D. McFaul, Esq., is making extensive repairs and improvements on his stable and carriage house at his residence on Center street.

Monday at 2 o'clock P. M. the clerk of court's office received proposals for the purchase of W. C. R. R. bonds were opened and read by Austin Harris and the county commissioners, Cliff Spencer and Nutt. Six gentlemen representing as many banking and business firms were present. Names of the same are as follows: D. S. Clark, Boston, Mass.; H. B. Saunders, Portland, Me.; D. F. Willey, Boston, Mass.; Chas. Gilman, Boston; H. W. Wyse, New York; and James Crosby, of Bangor, representing a New York house.

The bids were read right in summer, ranging from 98 70-100 to 102 70-100. Mr. Crosby's bid being the highest, he at once claimed the bonds. But as the county commissioners reserved the right to reject or accept any or all bids, they were informed, and it was reported later that Mr. H. B. Saunders was the party that made the final purchase.

Several New York attorneys are here engaged in the Register of Deeds, in tracing titles to the various timber factories purchased by the English timber syndicate.

It will require 1200 logs of land in repairing the dyke. Work was pushed fairly well, and when asked by the Whig correspondent when the tide would be so that land the foreman replied that he thought by Wednesday, but since then nearly fifty of the logs have been rendered useless by bursting after they were lowered in place. Signs have been posted on either side of the bridge that it is unsafe for the passage of teams and that all such would take their own chances. Tide, of course, will be removed within a few days.

Mr. Geo. Leavett died at his home June 13. He had been feeble for some time. His children had been called home from different parts of the country.

A sad drowning accident happened Tuesday morning at about 1 o'clock on the river where it is being repaired. About 10 o'clock in the evening the pile driving hammer was lost and search was made for the same until about 12 o'clock, when the foreman decided that it was useless to continue the search at that time, and gave orders to leave it for the night. This all did except J. F. Merrill, of New Hampshire, and Bennie Allen, of this place, who persisted in continuing the search. The tide was running out with great speed and Merrill got his footing and dropped into the water, was carried through the sluice and out to sea. Allen heard his cry out after coming through the sluice, but there being so much foam on the water and the darkness combined made it impossible to see any form. Allen gave an alarm and boats were soon dredging the river, which was kept up until about 10 o'clock. At 2 o'clock, while the tide was down, a still larger crew of men were searching for the lost body, but to no effect.

The price paid for the $200,000 W. C. R. R. bonds was 98 per cent. above par, or $1750, and was taken by Mr. Saunders, of Portland.

BASE BALL NOTES.

Anson says he has signed the New Yorks, but not to play.

Hamilton is first in the National League by base stealing with Delahanty second. Collins leads the league in home runs (5), and stands next to Lajoie in total bases.

Lachance is evidently out of his element at short. He made nine errors in the last four games of last week.

Stockard and Jones are the only rivals to the Brooklyn team with a grip better than .300 in battling. Tucker comes next to them.

George Davis leads the New Yorks at the bat with an average of .341. Van Haltren with .324 is the only other regular in the .300 list.

Keister has been fielding splendidly for Cleveland. If the same with Providence Stanley he batted well, pounding three hits, one a two bagger.

The Chicago mates have won more than half of their games from three clubs. They have beaten the Pittsburgs seven times and the New Yorks and Brooklyns five each.

The Sophomore class of Dartmouth College has elected G. W. Craig manager of the Dartmouth baseball team for 1900. Craig belongs in Brooklyn, N. Y., and is a member of the Alpha Delta Phi.

Manager Barnich of the Baltimores, has signed Pitcher Arlington Pond on unconditional release. This action is taken by the management solely to reduce expenses. It is understood that Mr. Hanlon is contemplating the release of another twirler.

The third and deciding game of the ball or the interscholastic championship will be played at the polo grounds, New York, on Saturday afternoon next, beginning at 3:30 o'clock, between Yale and Princeton. Each team have lost one game on their home grounds and the polo grounds never yielded a victory to the visiting team, so for the decisive battle.

The Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph says: Manager Watkins, in conference with this city last week, said that Inys and Beaver would replace Hawley and Hayes, which was long coming and he thinks that from Oberlin, who was secured from the Baltimores, in the place of Morgan Murphy, who had been released, has a better man and been secured in Bowerman.

"Edgewater"
Camden, June 13, '98.

Hon. Reuel Robinson, Chairman Camden Rep. Com.

Dear Sir—It is with regret that I feel that the causes of the Democratic party is called for the 14th inst., I am unavoidable absence from town prevents my coming to it, to give in my adhesion to the party with which it is my intent on hereafter to act. I have been led to this decision by the changing issues which have come before the country as we look by the feeling that it is the duty of all patriotic citizens to support the existing administration in carrying on the war with Spain.

Hoping that for the success of the Republican party, to which success I will render as far as in me lies.

I remain yours truly,
W. Howard Gardiner.

Mr. Gardiner was secretary of the Democratic National Committee on the gold platform, and this shows which way the wind blows, and he took a very prominent stand against Bryan. Mr. Gardiner is a grandson of the late W. H. Gardiner, Esq., of Boston, a very prominent lawyer in his time.

Silvery G. Mehan, who died suddenly at his home in Rockland Sunday, was one of the most prominent political men in Knox county. He was senator in 1899 and always a prominent figure in Democratic conventions. Mr. Mehan was formerly a ship builder in Thomaston. Among other forms of sudden death in Rockland Tuesday, the most noticeable was the full regalia of the officers of the banks in Thomaston and many friends from that place were present. The Thomaston National and Savings banks, of which he was a director, suspended business.

PERR FRITZ.

At City Hall Yesterday Afternoon.

Healing by the Laying on of Hands.

A REMARKABLE EXHIBITION.

A Large Audience With Plenty of Sick and Crippled to be Healed.

Dear Fritz and staff of modern healers captured the city yesterday afternoon. This had a large attendance and they certainly gave the most wonderful and interesting exhibition ever witnessed in this city.

After a brief and very interesting talk the healing was commenced and almost entirely were performed.

Many people not wishing their names to appear in print we will give them a few cases as treated and cured yesterday afternoon.

Among the cases to be cured was an old gentleman known to almost every body in Bangor. His was a case of paralytic rheumatism. The old gentleman was very badly crippled, but in less than a minute after Perr Fritz had made a few passes with his hand over his body and limbs the pain had ceased, his contracted limbs took a new life and with a cry of joy the old gentleman jumped to the middle of the platform, threw his cane away and went about stamping, walking and jumping like a young man.

A man cured of deafness. This man had been deaf for 23 years. In less than five minutes he was made to hear the tick of a watch, and even a whisper many feet away.

Mrs. Mary Bennett, who was crippled by eight years of agonizing rheumatism, was after short treatment able to walk off, carrying her crutch over her shoulder, at which the audience applauded, and many cries of "Praise God!" were heard.

A most remarkable cure was that of Mrs. William Brown, who came upon the stage with an intense nervous dyspepsia. After a few minutes' treatment all distress had left the woman's stomach. She went home to a hearty supper.

A five years' case of neuralgia in the head and all over the body was cured in five seconds, the chalism of ten years' development was removed from Mrs. Barber, who, after the treatment, walked perfectly. A man for a case of partial deafness, a person for a case of kidney troubles, lung troubles, etc., were cured.

It is not necessary to mention every case treated, but it is sufficient to say that all were relieved and many declared themselves entirely cured.

This exhibition of healing by the laying on of hands was pronounced a success and everybody who came sick or well should be healed.

The cures exceeded anything ever before
